Soft things, there's people here and green trees. More than one body of a person. The bodies are touching each other.

Colors yellow and green. It feels soft and nice and pleasant. The bodies are touching each other, one person's hand is softly pressed against the body of another, and the person who touches with their hand that person's belly is also against the second person.

It's a hug. It's love. It's pleasantness. There is closeness and affection, tenderness and appreciation, but softly and gently.

Nothing is being built here. And nobody is angry here or stomping the ground with their feet. Everything is soft and delicate here, gentle and kind and loving and nurturing in a way. There is a distinct gentleness about it here.

Outdoors because I feel the warm sunshine it's yellow. Happiness here. A hug. The first person is using its hands to softly touch and make contact with the second body.

I feel the love the shining radiant joyous love! It's beautiful!

People. Something about his belly. Happiness.

They're not really walking around a lot, I don't feel or hear the shoes from walking around.

First person puts his hand on second person's shoulder.

First person is very happy and warm and does the hug gesture on second person. Second person is more passive and neutral and not being very emotional.

Happiness and we are outdoors. I saw a bullet between the teeth of the first person, he bit into a bullet between his teeth. Earlier I also saw the first person lying on his back on the floor or ground.

First person looked to be in his 40's, he had blonde hair and balding, he wore what looked and felt like a somewhat heavy uniform with blue color, on the front and chest the clothing was hard, not like a soft sweater, it is a little bit uncomfortable to wear. The pants could have been dark brown color. He looked Caucasian.

HAPPINESS! ELATION! JOY! It's a victory!

The feet and the shoes are there but they are staying put!
The first man's feet. He has heavy hard shoes that are dark brown color.

First person is an older man and second person is a younger man. Elation! First person stands up tall and makes a V with the arms raised and it feels like a victory!

YES! says the first man.

First man is doing something with his hands! I also feel it a little bit on the left forearm close to the wrist.

Trees green trees. Sunshine outdoors daytime daylight.

The first man wears long pants that are blue with a brown vertical stripe on the sides!

First man climbed up on something, it was like he climbed up on the back of a pickup truck.

Victory and possibly a medal of honor!

It smells there! The smell of either dirt from the ground meaning soil like nature or leather.

The first man says "YES!!" because he saw and found the second younger man! The first man CAME HERE TO THIS PLACE to see the younger man.

The first man is staying put here and his feet stay put so he is not going anywhere from this place. It's a good place to be.

I see a boat, a brown wooden boat with a very pointy front.

A small boat not like a ship. Very long and pointy front.

It smells here like leather.

The first man was chewing on a spent bullet between his teeth.

It smells like the gun and the first man got a gun barrel put into his mouth and there was the bullet. A small gray pistol. Notably the outside surface material of this gun is not smooth, instead it feels like cast iron. The surface of the gun has a lot of grainy bumps so it is not smooth. It is also not shiny or polished looking. It looks old like a historical item.

The smell of bear fur and leather and I see a small brown wooden cottage where the walls are made of wide planks that are not straight on the sides so that it leaves a lot of gaps between the planks and that makes light and air from the outdoors seep in.

The boots or shoes are uncomfortable for the first man. The first man is happy he is bringing a parchment which means a big paper and it is going to be signed and listed.

It's a VICTORY! the first man thinks so and feels so. I saw him holding the gun barrel in his hand. He really loves the younger man. The older man chews a bullet. It looks like a rusty red old spent bullet. The parchment was made.

The blue color. The first man's shoes. He is wearing a blue uniform which has brown vertical lines. Something is happy and victorious. His shoes stay put.

I see a wooden plank or board.

Happiness, about a young son (second person). There's no women here, it's these men.

The listing that is on this parchment. It's a record that keeps track. Record of listed names, signatures. The first man has this parchment with him.

There is no dangerous or violent altercation.

Happiness! A victory happened. His shoes stay put, his shoes aren't moving. So much sunshine with yellow light.

It's the first man's hands.

He chews the bullet. The parchment paper, it is thick and is made out of fabric pulp.

The shoes stay put. He's standing there and he's not going anywhere (the first man).

I find something golden. It's a place with people. It feels good and soft and kind here. Something smells to the nose of one man, he had some brown moustache beard hair.

The shoes stay put.

Secondary stage:

Investigate the first man: He is not a strong man, he doesn't have a lot of strong arm muscle. He couldn't fight he is not a fighter. He is a KIND and happy man! He is wearing gold. Like if he has a medal of honor or victory around his neck. He climbed up somewhere to get here.

Investigate first man's shoes: They are hard shoes uncomfortable to wear. They are shoes that don't slip. They have a good grip against the ground because the underside is ruffled.

The first man is being awarded a medal.

Second man. The second man feels sad and blue and lonely. It feels like the second man drowned in the water next to the wooden boat. He perished and turned blue. He vanished. The second man is dead.

Investigate green or trees: I just feel the love around here.

Investigate the spent bullet: It missed, it was fired at something and it missed and went into a tree trunk. It was found there lodged in the tree and retrieved. It was a failed assassination attempt. Someone won here. The first man has won.

Investigate medal: First man wants to give the medal to the second man.

Investigate hug: Love. They know each other. They are comrades. The second man his body turned cold and blue and is in water and he was smaller frame or build than the first man, and this second man has a full brown beard.

Investigate parchment: The first man shakes hand of second man. Why? The second man has perished and turned cold and blue.

Visit target site: I am happy here and there is sunshine and a "listing". The two people, this target deals with them. They are near and close to each other in terms of proximity. A spent bullet was missed or passed between these two. The first man is feeling victorious.

First man: His shoes stay put.

Investigate first man with hands: He feels warm and happy. And he has got a spent bullet between his teeth. HE does NOT have the pistol! He's HAPPY! He hasn't spoken a lot to the second man. The second man has a tiny face and a full brown beard and full brown hair. First man is very happy. First man has a bullet between his teeth. First man stands ground, that is very important here about how the first man is standing where he is and is not moved away, he stands put. First man doesn't wear a hat. There's tree trunks here that look like big fat pine tree trunks because they have those bark pieces on the trunk. First man has a parchment.

Investigate parchment with hands: It's soft and fat. I see a pistol. And a man has a bullet between his teeth. Pinch the parchment. No it is not a parchment when I pinch it, instead it is the cheek of a man, it is the fat inside the cheek. Run finger along the parchment, it's like flesh.

Investigate second man: He doesn't speak and he is nonresponsive. He's dead. He smells like pistol smoke or gunpowder or something small that was burnt.

Investigate hands of first man: There is a spent bullet in his hand. But he is not going to be giving it away to someone. He can smell something because I see his nostrils. There was NO fight or altercation or violence here. The first man is happy because he has won. He was victorious. He hasn't been defeated because he stands his ground he stays with his shoes put. He climbed up here to this hill. His arms are weak. He is not a strong man. He has a good heart meaning he is kind. He doesn't have a long full beard. He is holding the medal in his hand and he is not going to be giving it away to someone. He pats the other man on the shoulder. He is not stomping with his feet, the feet stay put.

Touch the first man: His arms are very weak he has no strength whatsoever in his arms. He does NOT have the holster for the gun. He is standing put and he is not going anywhere. He is happy.

Who is the first man: he has a son whom he loves very much. The first man has a good heart and a lot of love. There is no fight here and no altercation. I see the green color. There is happiness here and joy a reunion.

Top view: A hug takes place. Loving hug. And the first man's nostrils he can smell something.

Location: I'm on all fours on the floor. It's a happy place. It smells here like burnt. There are trees, the big pine tree trunks, one tree looked to be leaning diagonally as if fallen but not flat on the ground. It's dark here on the floor. There's a lot of things it's not an empty space. It's a mess. It's not tidy here! I smell the smell of a burnt pipe. It's dark and cold on the floor. There's a mess of things in a disorder and it's not neat and tidy.

Ground: it smells burnt here on the ground and the ground is black and dark. I crawl over to one of the disorderly fallen things on the ground to pat them with my hands. Instead I see the first man's nostrils are smelling the burnt as well. Ow! Something either hits a hard blow at the back of my head or something fell down hard on the back of my head. Let me crawl a bit away from here, I find green color which usually indicates nature such as grass and trees.

I sit on the floor next to the first man: Aha! Someone is talking to the first man. The second man was talking to the first man! Listen to what the man is saying: "I was pretty happy and privileged to have you here. And so I say, that this place has been insignified. And so it is, that we have had this place, here unto between us, and so it shall be and be known for all of time, this place. And we shall see to it..." And the second man put his hand on the shoulder or upper arm of the first man, so that was an amicable gesture. Again I saw that the second man has a small head and a full brown beard.

Listen again to the second man: "I was quite happy and privileged to see you here. We shall see to it fit, that this place shall be signified. And we shall be known for all of time, that unto this place, nothing bad has happened. We shall signify this place, with unto our signatures. And so we are good to see it done. We shall be listed here, the signatures that we will collect.", says the second man to the first man, the second man puts his hand on the right shoulder of the first man as a kind and friendly gesture.

Let's see if the first man ever speaks something: "I was quite unhappy that you decided to shot me."

Let's investigate the second man: The second man has died. Who was he: He was like a father for his people. A lot of women were relying on this second man, they were counting on him. He went there on their behalf.

Let's investigate the second man closely: he is short, he is small, he has brown hair and a brown full beard, his body is so small he is a tiny man. His eyes look like dead eyes. He had made himself look good for this occasion. He was wearing something dignified.

Go back to start: HUG. Why do they hug? The first man has a bullet between his teeth. Investigate bullet: He won't swallow it. It was not done in altercation or fight or struggle. And it didn't knock him down. His belly. I find a text written across when I investigate his belly, it looked like Old English.

First man's shoes are stuck on the ground where they stand. They shook hands. They were amicable. They hug and they pat on the shoulder.

Investigate relationship between these two men: They love each other! First man feels love toward the second man. However, first man has a spent bullet between his teeth. New method: go into the mind of the first man and into his body, and I learn that the first man knows the second man. First man's feet in the shoes are stuck. He can't move his feet. Something in first man's hands. He has the bullet in his teeth.

Why does first man have a bullet in his teeth: I put my hand into his mouth to investigate. The first man is laughing! There are burned trees here on the ground.

I push the first man to see how he reacts: his feet are STUCK to the ground where he stands. I push him again: He gets confused as to why I am fighting him.

I push the second man: he says "please leave me alone". These are not fighters. They don't even get angry.

I give the first man a hug: he liked that.
I give the second man a hug: he pushes me away.

I take the bullet into my hand, the first man asks me to give it back to him. But he didn't get angry.

Investigate identity and character of first man: I see his nose and moustache. He likes to be happy. His job is that he put together this parchment to sign and list this place where they are. We're on a hill. They are signing this place, signature on the parchment.

Try to see second man's clothes: He had the gun!
I grab the second man's hand: He is sad and lonely. He feels defeated and perishing.
Go into mind and body of second man and I find that while he was on the ground he was talking. Let's listen to what he says again: "It was good that we came to this place to do the insignia." "It was good that we have come." second man says to the first man. Probe for why they came here. Try to see the second man before he had arrived here. Before he got here he felt DETERMINED AS HECK! He had been forced to come here. He was forced and pushed to come here. There's blood on him and he has an expressionless face and he feels no emotions at that time.

Second man before he came here: He was forced and also fearful, it feels like he is staring at death. He doesn't feel happy. He is not happy at all. He's a small guy. He fell into water. He is the son of someone important. He didn't want to come here, he felt fearful about coming here, but it wasn't his decision. What did he do in the past before coming here was an issue: He used to feel happy and smile in the past, and he used to sit by a wooden table and people would come to him and bring him papers for him to sign, and there were wooden boats or ships in the water nearby to him, an important port. He was never a violent or angry person, he never dealt with weapons. He used to smoke tobacco from a pipe. He chewed metal.

Let's find the moment when he decided to come to this hill: He felt determined as heck but also fearful. He was there on behalf of his people who were backing him up.

Who was the first man before he came here: I see a rowboat with lots of long ores on both sides. His feet are stuck on the hill.

Investigate the hill: it smells burning here. I see smoke rising when I am up in the air for a top view.

11:14 AM Ending and feedback.
