Trees. Logic is interfering a lot and telling me that this format won't work. I have to get my mind into the same place as when I remote view targets by Daz Smith or Leonard Buchanan.

A lot of small things are placed around in a ring or a semi circle on the ground. Many things are here. They are close to ground or on the ground. Many things that could be put into boxes. They can also be put on shelves.

Stones. Somewhat tall but not very large stones, blunt on the top, medium gray colored. A door can be placed there. Green color, green trees or grass.

I will move from the living room to my bedroom, am almost falling asleep, will continue the work there.

Many small things, and a lock and key associated with a door. A path on the ground leads to it, a path that people could walk on. It is not a straight path road but slightly winding and is narrow and a dirt road not paved. Things are on the ground. They are stones.

New method: I brush the back of my hand across along the number set to feel it out, this reminds me of how others make an ideogram. This reveals to me the sensation and outline that these are things on the ground and they are not very tall. Some small items, several of them, not tall enough to be up to knee height of a person. There is grass here, and the sun has already set but it is not dark here.

The earth I can smell the ground.

I am falling asleep so sleepy. I found spruce trees. A key.

New method: I sit on the number chain. This brings me to be on the dirt ground outdoors.

I am falling asleep. Will continue this one tomorrow.

6:37 PM Continuing.

There is something here that I can grab with my hands. Someone has grabbed at these things on the ground with hands. Nothing goes very far from here. We also do not see a bright sun shining high up in the sky, the sun has already set but it is not too dark to see. We are on the ground on the grass.

Investigate element that was handled with hands. They sit firmly but they could also be pulled up from the ground and tossed away to the side.

Pull one up and handle it and then toss it to the side. Oh they are heavy, and it really looks again like a lock and key, I said that yesterday too.

Look at the lock and key, take it into your hands. They are being pulled, gravitated, into something, so they are not remaining in my hands they go somewhere, they fit somewhere, they belong somewhere. We are on the ground outside.

Sit on the ground there. There is a light source, a fading setting sunlight. There are several small items here that can all be handled, they are on the ground.

Place hand against one of those things on the ground. It feels cold to the touch against the palm of my hand. Push against it. It slides not and it goes into the ground and it sits there, partly embedded in the ground. Put hand on top of it and press on it. I find again a lock and a key. There is a door here on 9577.

Go to the door and go through the door and compare the both sides behind and in front of the door. No I cannot.

I want to end this session because this RV target does not feel like what I am used to when working with targets. I might try a different format.

6:46 PM Session ended. No drawing was produced.
