🕒 End Time Session: 15/Feb/2019 12:42 hrs

Session Summary:

Large red purple tarp covers and conceals its inside, contains machinery or mechanics which operate to contains a very high temperature high enough to melt materials, inside is a glowing yellow molten liquid material. Outside tarp on ground is black sticky tar which was previously molten. There are glowing light-weight emerald bricks, similar to glass but mineral in nature, water flushes tiny particles of emerald down with the water, there is strong heat above the emerald brick. Air has been sucked out from inside the tarp, creating a vacuum space with no air and therefore also no sound. If the center is approached, an alarm will sound. Emerald brick makes a delightful clink chyme similar to wine glass if tapped. The target has intense heat and the emerald bricks seem to be radioactive. Intensely strong heat was found, molten materials, glow, and radiation.
