ProjectX Target 30
Today February 21 2019

Start 8:26 PM

Harsh black rock very serious and dominating and dark and evil. This comes from 4999 and is so strong that it is impossible to probe 3672 for elements. Evil. Hatred. Emotions. Wanting to punch someone, making a hard fist ready to strike. Violence.

I am just going to jump into probing this dark violence element right away. It wants to rip into someone's heart and to punch them. Hatred, evil, contempt, disgust, wanting to injure someone with violence.

Let's go into this dark element to touch it and to see something there. It is an angry face, the eyes light up and stare toward me wide open. There is fighting going on there.

Someone is breathing in the black block. HATRED. HATRED, CONTEMPT. This is going to have to be lifeforms as these are strong emotions from a living being. This reminds me of the lemurs again. But let me poke and probe the black block to get some visuals and textures and shapes to see what we have in there.

There are green leaves on the ground. Breathing takes place here. We are sitting on a rock. There is a small red inside the black. An animal is pooping here. Fingers, black fingers. Standing up tall with the back. ANGER!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!! HATRED!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!! as I reach in to the black to touch there I felt those so strongly. CRUSHING SOMEONE!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!

Ok so we have strong emotions which, I don't care what category was set for this target, I am going to MYSELF define this target by these emotions and I don't care what the "right answer" was chosen to be by someone else. I am not going to be perverse by trying to find the "right answer". I am a remote viewer and I describe a target!! I will not be shaped into perverting my RV information just to please someone else. This target is defined by these strong negative violent emotions and that is that. That is my definition of this target category: emotions.

I have tried to select "energy" for target category that was emotional more than once before on ProjectX targets and always failed since the target was then always a lifeform (that experiences emotions we presume). So this target would be lifeform.

Can land, water, mountain, or structure experience such immensely strong emotions? I have also seen that energy was never the "right answer" for emotional energy on ProjectX. The only category that makes sense is to choose lifeform. But I will keep probing the elements.

There is a mouth inside the black block, and it has got the yellow eyes on it. And someone is wanting to crush it. There is seriously strong hatred here. I AM STANDING HERE, it says. YOU CANNOT COME HERE, it says. It reaches its head forward, eyes wide open, mouth open, the face looks relaxed to us humans who are observing it, but this creature is in fact feeling intense hatred but the face does not read that to us humans who read human facial expressions, so it is regrettable that the inner emotional world of this living being is completely overlooked by us humans who do not feel another one's heart.

Someone was killed here. There is a very violent and bad person here. Hatred and anger.

Logic tells me to worry about how this one reminds me of the two earlier cases of the lemur. So let me approach this target anew and ignore my earlier impressions, since logic is telling me that basically it is all in my head and wrong.

I get the same, hatred, pushing someone down, violence.

I will now look at the date time stamp of target generated to see what I get. There is hatred and punching. I swear this is the lemurs.

Huh! So violent I am taken aback, and this from the date stamp of 2019!

I am going to go and sit in the black block and collect some impressions. Huh, it's so evil! And it has a red heart. It wants to PUNCH someone! It has a mouth and teeth! It pushes someone down. There are green leaves around us on the ground. Someone is being choked and strangled. Violence, hatred, masculine destructive energy. It exhales, it is breathing. It has a tail, unless these are logic telling me things of the lemurs that it thinks this is.

Inside the black it feels soft. There is a mouth with teeth there.

I see a white grub pinned to the ground and moving its top and bottom frantically. Someone is being crushed here on his neck. There is a violent angry man with yellow eyes.

No water was found on this target. There are things other than the ground so it cannot be land. There are no tall mountains of rock so it cannot be mountain also there are other things here. The emotions and lifeforms are there so it cannot be structure, also no structural elements were found. Lifeform yes most definitely. Energy if emotional but ProjectX does not define emotions as an energy of a target, only things that would be obviously on the picture such as heat.

Oh, I found a thin white bone which is hollow on the inside as bones are, I do not recognize this as a bone from the human body, it was too frail and thin to be a human bone.

I am dominant I am asserting my space, I am going to show you my teeth.

Ok how could this not be a lifeform, and the lemurs specifically?

I do a top view and I see motion down in the black box. And I detect an animal poo smell there. It opens its mouth to show its teeth. It may have snapped a twig or broken a bone in the other animal. This is a very territorial species. There are feet here with little socks or shoes that are soft. A beating heart. The inside of a mouth. There is a mouth there.

A wooden long narrow boat like a canoe brown color, I will not list this it will have to appear again?

Target: punching, hatred, evil.

Ok if this is a lifeform then what kind of a lifeform is it? There are grubs here on the ground in front of the black hateful element.

There is no water here. Grubs, they are eating grubs. Probe grubs then look from grubs at other elements: Wow, I am having that religious experience that I first experienced with the target that was the Antarctic Science Base when I see the water and pixels that make up a simple item and I feel how it is god in that material, it is so beautiful, and something as simple as a grub becomes a religious experience of seeing God in the fabric of things. Aha, the grub and the canoe resonate now to reveal themselves as the same element, have the same shape.

Interesting, the black box is violence as a visual element of shape and color, I often get that violence shows up visually as a black block. There is something horrendous happening here inside the black block. Someone is standing up in the black block.

There is an animal standing in the black block, it has its mouth open, it is violent and it is going to push down on another animal with violence. I will keep probing though. They are fighting about food, about banana slices.

Ok, since emotions are the strongest, I am now going to conclude that this is a lifeform target.

There is a heart and a challenge inside the black block. I will have to choose lifeform.

1. lifeform
2. energy
3. structure
4. land
5. mountain
6. water

And based on feeling out the bullets on the source page:

land goes up a bit (signal)

NO --- water goes downward so is a no mountain widens and rises a little so perhaps

NO --- structure feels weak and disintegrated dissolved so no

lifeform has a resonance there

NO --- energy goes weak and falls down

Notes: Start 8:26 PM

9:44 PM End session.

Strong negative emotions, hatred, violence, anger, contempt, one person/animal is crushing and pushing down another person/animal, they are fighting over food. Also seen the heart of the animal, a thin bone of an animal, green leaves, moving grubs, yellow eyes, open mouth.

Feedback: The target is the quarry again, that hole in the ground. I will conclude that I cannot do any more ProjectX targets since logic knows that it has seen all or almost all of the pictures that are being reused to logic has been having a field day, so we learn that. The targets are not blind anymore, also logic has another incentive to guess in that it processes constantly the six categories, also logic fears being wrong, logic worries and stresses about the points score and about what other people might think of my score. We see that I started out doing good at 27% and it has now been going down and we also see how logic has been interfering, well it must be logic since RV does not do that. I might do a few more but I now conclude that the method of how these targets are given to remote viewers is not useful for learning and is also "unlearning" the RV and is discouraging the viewer and is telling the viewer that they can't remote view even when they can better than the system suggests.

What I could have done better: Nothing, since logic is clearly guessing and calculating and processing in the back of my mind which of the known pictures might I have this time, and I do not know how to turn that off. Fully blind targets, which this is not any longer, is the only way to go.
